

In 1958 a young and ambitious girl, Lisa Tsirika, who became Mrs. Soulos 10years later, started a carrier as a designer in one of the biggest textile mills in Greece. By 1960, she had realized that working as a common employee in an art department could not satisfy her creative aspirations. So, she took a big step. That year she started her own business, designing original gobelin miniatures on silk. She continued designing embroidery until 1972, when with her husband, Andreas Soulos, who was already involved in screen printing, decided to establish a company to produce printed canvasses for embroidery.

They called their canvasses “GOBELIN L”, where the “L” stands for Lisa.

In 1999 “A. SOULOS & Co” (GOBELIN L) acquired the competing company “DIAMANT” and since then has produced both collections. Their son Yiannis and their son in law Vasilis Barakos are the new blood and future of the company which has been renamed “I.A. SOULOS & Co”.

“I. A. SOULOS & Co” specializes in printed canvasses and cushion kits. The NEW company's premises are located in a suburb close to Athens and the international airport. A newly built factory of 2,000 square meters with modern, high capacity equipment and machinery make it capable of preparing and delivering orders quickly and reliably with no sacrifice of quality.

The company is one of the main suppliers to the Greek market and exports printed canvasses to more than twenty five countries. It is one of the most creative companies in the field of embroidery. It will continue supplying the local and international market with new designs and new ideas for home decoration, keeping always the quality on high standards.
